Reports show that 5,000 negroes are on the government payroll. If Roosevelt is kept in office he would like to see 5,000 more at the pie counter.

In London some notorious robbers have been traced by finger prints left on a window glass. The social glass over here has given many a man away.

Says the New York World: "At the new Bull Run there is more science combined with less spontaneity of action than in the affair of '61." In those days all roads ran to Washington.

An exchange has now come forward with a statement that Southern California is suffering from a plague of wild watermelons. If there is an immediate exodus of the colored cotton-pickers the cause will not be hard to divine.

The Socialist candidate for President, Eugene V. Debbs has denounced Roosevelt, Parker and Davis as "enemies of the Republic." He leaves out Fairbanks, Tom Watson and Dr. Swallow, so we still have an alternative to cut out Debbs.

Miss Alice Roosevelt is a belle at the horse show at Newport. She is the guest of Mrs. Cornelius Vanbilt. She receives an ovation everywhere and soon we will know President Roosevelt as "Mr. Theodore Roosevelt, father of Miss Alice Roosevelt."

Gen. Shafter commanded the United States army at Santiago from a buckboard wagon. In the Manassas manœuvers Gen. Corbin is dashing around in a white automobile. No doubt Gen. Kuropatkin has money he would swap for on either vehicle.

The Republican spellbinders are fighting shy of their ship-subsidy steal. Senator Fairbanks, however, advocated it in one of his speeches a few days ago. He was then up among the ship owners of New England, but he will sing low when he goes to talking to Western farmers.

Says the Washington Post: "Republicans are introducing an innovation by having their meetings in West Virginia opened with prayer." We haven't got the heart to object. If anybody needs prayers it is unregenerate Republicans, who have heretofore bowed down and worshipped the scaly old G. O. P. elephant.

Dr. George T. Moore, of the laboratory of plant physiology in the United States Department of Agriculture, authorizes the statement that the death rate from typhoid fever, so far as the disease is caused by infected drinking water, may be wiped out by the scientific use of coffee as a germacide. Experiments along that line are being made and it is hoped that humanity will be the gainer by the discovery.

This event will be marked by the presentation of a splendid line of specialties. Ladies will be admitted free when accompanied by the holders of a paid 30 cent ticket, which however, must be purchased before 6 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The advance sale of seats will commence at Plummer's this morning.

THE VETERANS.

Regular Monthly Meeting of Cape Fear Camp No. 254, U. C. V., Last Night.

BISHOP WATSON IMPROVED.

Col. Waddell Brings Up the Proposition to Erect a Monument to the "Women of the Confederacy"—Committee Appointed.

There was a goodly number of members of Cape Fear Camp, U. C. V., at their regular monthly meeting last evening. Regular routine business was transacted.

Col. A. M. Waddell sprung a matter on the Camp in regard to a monument to the "Women of the Confederacy," which has been spoken of at a large number of meetings at other points. On his motion a committee consisting of Col. A. M. Waddell, Col. W. L. DeRosset, and Rev. Dr. James Carmichael were requested to call upon Capt. Metts, Commander of the Sons of Veterans, and ask him to call his camp together, awaken their interest and place before them the important question, and urge them to exhibit some interest in the matter, and as well to invite them cordially to attend the meetings of the camp.

The application for membership of the Rev. J. A. Smith was unanimously approved and he was declared elected. Mr. Smith is a survivor of the battle of Fort Fisher and was wounded there.

Dr. Carmichael, the chaplain, reported the improved condition of Comrade Bishop Watson and for him tendered to the camp as a gift a valuable book. The commander and adjutant were instructed to properly reply thereto.

The camp was inexpressibly gratified to hear the encouraging news from Dr. Watson.

MARDI GRAS NEXT WEEK.

The Mechanics Carnival Will Open Monday Evening at 7 O'clock—Mayor Springer to Touch the Button.

The carnival of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics will open next Monday evening at 7 o'clock by the Seeman-Milliken Mardi-Gras Company. The scene of the attractions will be at Fifth and Campbell streets, and numerous entertaining features and festivities will make up the exhibition.

The grounds have been beautifully arranged and will be brilliantly lighted by the Consolidated Railways, Light and Power Company. Mayor Mayor Springer has accepted an invitation to touch the button that will turn on the lights and inaugurate the week's festivities and gaeity.

Every afternoon and evening the big carnival band will make a circuit of the city on a special trolley car, calling attention to the fact that a big mardi-gras is in progress, indeed if any such notification is necessary.

Big crowds will attend the carnival, as the shows attract the people wherever the company makes a stand.

BILLS FOR $188.25.

What the Attempt to Lynch the Bladen County Murderers Cost.

The attempt made on Tuesday night to lynch Neill Sellars and Dave Brown, the negroes charged with the murder of Mrs. George Packer, at Clarkton, cost $188.25. The Atlantic Coast Line on Wednesday presented Sheriff F. H. Stedman a bill for $63 25 to cover the fare for the prisoners and guards to Raleigh and Goldsboro, and another for $125 for the special train which brought Sheriff Stedman and his deputies and the military back from Goldsboro Tuesday night.

The sheriff informed the railroad authorities that he would forward the bill to the State Treasurer, as he was acting under orders of Governor Aycock. He was satisfied the Governor would order the bill paid, and if not the sheriff would pay it himself.

Solicitor C. C. Lyon, of Bladen county, was here yesterday and told Sheriff Stedman that if the State did not pay the expense, Bladen county would.

The Lamented Mrs. Olds.

Sincere sorrow has been felt in Wilmington over the death of Mrs. Fred A. Olds at Raleigh. She had many friends here who have been touched deeply by her death and whose sympathies go out to the bereaved husband and family.

Mrs. Olds was president of the North Carolina Division, United Daughters of the Confederacy, and Cape Fear Chapter, of this city, as a mark of respect to her memory, sent to Raleigh a handsome floral tribute to be laid upon her grave.

Mrs. Olds was a prominent Raleigh lady and was active in good works of all kinds. She was a woman of gifts and frequently wrote for the press. Often, in the absence of Col. Olds, she conducted his extensive newspaper correspondence from the State capitol.

Great Catch by the Fisheries.

The steamers of the Cape Fear Fisheries Company are catching large hauls of menhaden. The fish are not only fatter and more productive in oil than for many seasons, but the schools along the coast are larger than for several seasons. One ship has caught 20,000 barrels of fish during the past four weeks.

COUNTY CONVENTIONS.

The Democrats of Robeson and Bladen Counties Nominate Strong Tickets. Good Majorities Promised.

[Special Star Correspondence.]

LUMBERTON, N. C., Sept. 9.—The Democratic county convention, which was held here to-day, was the largest many people here ever saw, and was one of the most orderly. County Chairman J. G. McCormick could not be improved on as a presiding officer. The following ticket was nominated: Senate, A. L. Shaw; House, G. C. Fisher and E. J. Britt, the latter's second term; Sheriff, Geo. B. McLeod, renominated for the fourth term; Register of Deeds, Dan'l Bullock; Treasurer, A. A. McLean; Coroner, G. E. Rancke; County Commissioners, J. A. Hodgin, R. R. Barnes, J. W. Carter, J. L. Townsend and C. A. Oliver.

The ticket is considered a very strong one, and everybody seems perfectly satisfied.

Robeson can be counted on to give her usual Democratic majority.

THE BLADEN DEMOCRACY.

ELIZABETHTOWN, N. C., Sept. 8.—The Bladen county Democratic convention met to-day and nominated the following ticket:

House, W. L. Shaw; clerk, W. A. Clark; sheriff, C. W. Lyon; treasurer, W. S. Clark; register of deeds, J. S. Williamson; commissioners, C. P. Parker, L. E. Squires, A. A. Clark; surveyor, B. F. Tatum; coroner, G. W. Hall.

Hon. J. A. Brown and Hon. H. L. Godwin made strong and eloquent speeches to the large crowd present.

The utmost harmony prevailed. We confidently expect 1,000 majority in November.

GIGANTIC SALE OF SEATS.

Theatre-Goers Made a Rush on the Field Minstrel Sale Yesterday.

It was correctly foretold that the advance sale of seats for the performance of the Al G. Field's Greater Minstrels at the Academy Monday night—marking the formal opening of the house—would be of enormous proportion. The sale was opened yesterday morning, a day sooner than is customary, but already seats by the hundreds have been sold.

It is not always an easy task to find a man who can, in giving a monologue keep his audience in continual convulsions of laughter, but Al G. Field seems to have made such a find when he engaged Billy Clark, the new comedian with the show this year. Clark is a young man and his fun is of the unctuous and quiet character that keeps the people laughing while he doesn't appear to be making any particular effort. His work and his songs and stories during his monologue are one of the hits of this season.

SIX NEGRO VAGRANTS.

Police Made a Juicy Haul on Tenth Street Yesterday Afternoon.

Four of Wilmington's most energetic blue coated guardians of the peace, namely, Policemen Howell, Holt, Truslove and Smith, rounded up a gang of alleged vagrants yesterday afternoon and as a result six negroes will face the Mayor in the Police court to-day charged with vagrancy.

For some time past about a score of negro men have loitered constantly several hours of the night excepted, in front of a shop on Tenth street, between Dock and Orange. Yesterday afternoon the policemen mentioned "swooped down" on the crowd and arrested half a dozen negroes. A long black buck attempted to escape. He made a run for liberty, but it availed him nothing as he was soon re-captured.

HEARING THIS MORNING.

Much Talked of Town of Myrtle Case for Judge Brown's Decision.

Hon. Geo. H. Brown, of the Superior Court bench, arrived in the city last night and will this morning hear the case of the town of Myrtle. The time appointed is 9:30 o'clock and the place the court house. Yesterday it was said that the hearing would be continued as some of the lawyers in the suit had to be absent at Duplin county court. The feature of the hearing no doubt will be the affidavits, mentioned in the STAR yesterday.

DREADFUL SHOCK.

Mrs. T. S. McManus, of Wilmington, Killed in the Seaboard Air Line Wreck.

HER IDENTITY COMPLETE.

She Left Here Thursday Afternoon on a Visit to Atlanta—Her Death Causes Great Distress—Mr. McManus Gone to the Sad Scene.

The telegraphic columns of THE STAR this morning contain the particulars of an appalling accident which occurred yesterday morning at 1 o'clock on the Seaboard Air Line. It occurred just west of the bridge over the Catawba river in the southeastern corner of York county, S. C., near the Chester county line, and about 23 miles from Monroe, N. C. The westbound passenger train went through a trestle 200 hundred feet long over a small stream in the river bottom and about a quarter of a mile from the river.

The news of the catastrophe reached Wilmington early yesterday morning, and hundreds of anxious inquiries were made concerning the fate of the passengers and train crew. It was known that so terrible an accident could not have occurred at so dangerous a locality without loss of life and frightful injury to the persons on the two trains which plunged through the high trestle. There is a descent there of 35 or 40 feet and how a soul survived the awful wreck is a miracle.

The harrowing story is told on the fourth page of THE STAR, but the first authorized news of the calamity was given out yesterday in a synopsis furnished by Mr. E. B. Williamson, general agent at Wilmington for the Seaboard Air Line. That synopsis corresponds with the Associated Press account and both mentioned as among the killed an unknown lady. Our people were horrified later to learn that it was Mrs. McManus, wife of Mr. T. S. McManus, manager of the Southern Bell Telephone Company in this city.

Soon after the accident, those who went to the wreck discovered that the unknown lady had a return ticket to Atlanta, purchased in Wilmington on Thursday. Investigation by Mr. Williamson proved that only one such ticket was sold that day and that it was to Mrs. McManus. A description of her clothing, a travelling bag which she carried, and the color of her hair was sent here and then it became certain that the lady who met her death in such a frightful manner was Mr. McManus' wife. He accompanied her to the train Thursday afternoon, and she left on the 3:05 P. M., train to visit friends and relatives in Atlanta.

When the description of the lady made it certain as to the identity, Mr. Williamson had to perform the painful task of informing Mr. McManus. He did so yesterday afternoon about 6 o'clock, and it was a terrible shock to the husband who had parted from his wife in the bloom of health the afternoon before. The description was an awful revelation to him as he knew from it beyond a doubt that the unknown lady was his wife. He left last evening for the scene, accompanied by Mr. W. V. Hardin.

Mrs. McManus was Miss Sue Smithers, formerly of Gordonsville, Va., and they have three daughters, aged respectively 16, 14 and 12 years. She was a member of the First Baptist church and although having come to Wilmington but a few years ago she had many friends here. They are deeply distressed over her tragic death, and the entire community is wrapped in profound sympathy for Mr. McManus and the children who have been so suddenly and tragically bereaved.

Mr. McManus' residence is at 609 Orange street, and his children are there.

Laid to Rest.

The funeral of young Mr. Edgar P. Bryan, who was killed in the elevator accident at the Rheinstein building on Thursday, took place at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the family residence, 616 Wooster street. The solemn services were conducted by Rev. J. W. S. Harvey, and there was a large attendance of friends, including, in a body, Col. Walker Taylor's Boys' Brigade, of which the deceased was a member.

The interment was made at Bellevue cemetery, and the grave was overlaid with many floral tributes. The funeral was concluded with military honors, taps having been sounded and a salute fired by the Boys' Brigade.

The pall-bearers were the following young men: Messrs. Freeman Pigford, Sion King, Woody King, Leon Parker, James Hall and Walter Thomas.

As a mark of respect to the memory of the deceased, Mr. Chas. M. Whitlock, his employer, had his shops closed and all the employes attended the funeral at the residence and the cemetery. Mr. Whitlock sincerely sympathized with the bereaved family and attended the last sad rites at the cemetery.

The Wake Forest College Infirmary.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. and R. L. Bridgers, prominent merchants of Bladenboro, Bladen county, N. C., have given Wake Forest College one thousand dollars toward the erection of the Infirmary building. This generous gift, added to the amount recently given by Dr. John Mitchell, makes a sum amply sufficient for the erection of a handsome infirmary.

The trustees have already appointed a building committee and work will be begun at once.

CHANCE FOR SOUTHPORT.

Proposition to Continue the Conway Coast and Western Railroad Along the Coast.

The Southport Standard of Thursday says:

The Standard is in receipt of a communication from Mr. F. A. Burroughs, president of the Conway Coast and Western Railroad Company, of Conway, S. C., relative to the extension of his road through Brunswick to Southport. His letter is in answer to an inquiry made by the Standard as to the prospects of securing such an improvement in the near future. Mr. Burroughs says in part:

"We have a growing proposition, and are at work extending our line westward through Horry county. The railroad can be built to Southport if the people in Southport co operate. I will be glad to come down with my friends and talk the matter over with your people, if you are seriously interested."

Now, citizens of Brunswick and especially of Southport, here is your opportunity. We have been talking railroad, and hoping for a railroad for a generation. We are confident Mr. Burroughs has a proposition worth investigating. Shall we not, therefore, make the effort? We call especially the attention of the Chamber of Commerce to the above communication. Let us meet and formulate plans to secure the road. Let us set a date or ask Mr. Burroughs to set a date to the citizens of Southport and let the county citizens do likewise. Who will take the lead?

A Japanese to Preach.

A converted Japanese, Mr. Tiego Fishida, will preach at the First Baptist Church Sunday morning. His conversion to Christianity, and his experience in his Buddist home among his relatives and friends, is a story of thrilling interest. All who hear him will be entertained as well as benefited. He has just finished his course at Baylor University, and this fall will enter the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary at Louisville. He will return as a missionary to Japan. In size and appearance he is a fair specimen of the Japanese soldiers now at war with the Russians.

Pastor Hale will preach at the regular service at night.

Now a Merchant in Germany.

Mr. John Hashagan, a former Wilmingtonian, is a prosperous merchant in Bremerhaven, Germany. He was once a clerk for the late Mr. Edward Peschau, German Consul, but returned to Germany sixteen years ago. He is particularly kind and courteous to Wilmington travelers who go abroad and they appreciate the attentions that he takes a pleasure in showing them. He is always glad to hear from Wilmington.

— The fishermen are now catching some fine September mullets.

A dip in the ocean these hot afternoons is a pleasure beyond compare—car every half hour in the afternoon.

EDGAR BRYANT.

All men have a mission in life though perhaps few realize it. With some their mission is a life work, a conscious striving, a definite aiming; with others their mission is accomplished in a single act; with some, even this supreme act is unintentional, and they are not conscious of doing anything for others, and sometimes never know, and often the world never knows, the meaning of the life that came and passed. But "that life is long which answers life's great end."

And so, as we stand in the presence of the awful tragedy of yesterday, when without a moment's warning our comrade and friend, Edgar Bryant, lay down the life which he had taken up some eighteen years ago, we solemnly ask ourselves "what was the great mission of that life, so suddenly accomplished?"

Edgar was a new member of the Brigade, but a very enthusiastic one. He was anxious to do something for the organization. Well perhaps it was given him to teach us a great lesson by his death. There are scores of us to-day for the Brigade, mayhap it was his, how to it all unconsciously and unintentionally, to die for it; for in his death we are taught most forcibly two great lessons. First, we are reminded that for nearly nine years the mercy of Almighty God our Heavenly Father has followed us. Death, till now, has been kept with omnipotent hand from our door, blessings have followed us, both as individuals and as a Brigade; and have we appreciated these things or have we forgotten them and forgotten the "Giver of every good and perfect gift?" Perhaps it was for Bryant to remind us, not in the thunder tones of the living voice, but by the louder though silent voice that speaks to our inmost hearts, that our lives are daily and hourly upheld by a divine hand and all our blessings come from Him. The second lesson is the very plain one that is so easily forgotten, of the uncertainty of life and the certainty of death. We are all too apt to pass the years as if we were immortal, not realizing that we became immortal only when our work is done. May we never forget these lessons. And when we think of our comrade dead, and wish we could speak to him a kindly helpful word, may we, for his sake, speak it to another, still in the land of the living, and do him a kindness for Edgar's sake.

Resolved, That our comrade, Edgar Bryant, shall ever be held by us in loving remembrance, that we will try to remember the lessons of his life and death, that we extend to his stricken family our heartfelt sympathy, and that a page of our records be dedicated to his memory.

2 The above was unanimously adopted at a meeting of the Boy's Brigade held September 8, 1904.

OUR GREAT SOUTHERN STAPLE.

On the 6th of September, Col. H. G. Hester, Secretary of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange, made public in full his annual report showing the movement of the American cotton crop during the past season. Col. Hester's is the most eminent American authority on cotton and both in America and Europe his statistics are considered more accurate than those from any other source. His report shows the total commercial crop as well as details of distribution. Secretary Hester also furnishes his customary census of Southern mills and Southern cotton consumption.

From the New Orleans Pickayune we get an insight into his report.

On the last evening of the cotton year, that is August 31, Colonel Hester made public the leading crop totals, which was an unprecedented statistical feat, involving a careful preparation and the rapid digestion of a mass of telegraphic reports. The full report, supplements and confirms the totals furnished on Aug. 31, ult., and furnishes, besides, very much interesting data and comment, which everybody interested in cotton would do well to read.

Secretary Hester puts the cotton crop of 1903-4 at 10,011,374 bales, a decrease of 716,185 under that of 1902-03, of 669,306 under that of 1901-02 and of 372,043 bales under that of 1900 01. He says that, compared with last year, in round figures, Texas (including Indian Territory) has increased 45,000 bales. The group known as Other Gulf States, consisting of Louisiana, Arkansas, Mississippi, Tennessee, Oklahoma, Utah and Kansas, has lost 430,000, and the group of Atlantic States—Alabama, Georgia, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, Kentucky and Virginia—has fallen off 332,000.

The fact that Texas increased her production, notwithstanding the boll weevil ravages, attests the wonderful possibilities of that imcomparable State, an empire in extent and a treasure-house of agricultural wealth.

While the past crop must be classed as a small one, it was worth more in actual money than any other previous crop, not even excepting the bumper crop of 1898-99. The average commercial value of the crop reached the high rate of $61.68 per bale. Referring to the total value of the crop, which was $617,501,548, Mr. Hester says that, while the crop is smaller by seven hundred and odd thousand bales than last year and is less by 1,263,000 bales than the crop of 1898 99, which was the largest ever marketed, it has brought a better return in money values than any ever produced in the South. Referring to the increase in values over last year, he gives details as to prices, showing that, while the lowest range of last season was from September to January, inclusive, this year the high scale of values was during the period of marketing the bulk of the crop, and goes on to say the result was that farmers obtained more of the advantage of the rise, instead of its coming as usual after the cotton had passed out of their hands. In other words, there were marketed up to January 31st of this year, in round figures, 8,010,000, which sold for $447,710,000, while up to the same period last season the amount marketed was 7,985,000, which brought $336,665,000, a difference of only 25,000 bales and an increase in the amount received of over $138,000,000.

The beneficial effects upon the South of the payment to farmers of the vast sums represented by the sale of the last three crops can scarcely be estimated. The influence upon the industrial life of this section has been marked, while business enterprise has been greatly stimulated and promoted.

One of the most interesting portions of Colonel Hester's report is the census of the cotton mills of the South. He puts the spindles in the South at 8,615,369, an increase of 367,094. These include 685,258 in new mills not yet completed. The net gain in the number of Southern mills over last year has been 22, making the total now 762. Of these 671 have been in operation during the year, 57 are idle and 34 are in course of erection. The South consumed a total of 1,919,253 bales, a decrease of 81,477 bales compared with last year.

Mr. Hester puts the consumption of American cotton by Northern mills at 1,950,000 bales, against 2,016,000 last year. This, together with the amount consumed in the South, makes the total consumption of American mills 3,869,000, against 4,017,000 last year, a decrease of 148,000 bales.

It is, of course, matter for regret that for the first time in many years the development of the cotton manufacturing industry in the South has sustained a check, but it is equally evident that this has been due to abnormal conditions, in which Northern mills have shared to even greater extent. According to Secretary Hester, the year just closed has been the worst on record resulting in the South in a reduction on the face of the figures of 81,477 bales. These, he says, are actual figures, but when the increased spindles that have come into play are considered, the reduction is equivalent to more than 300,000 bales. In other words, with the present spindles in active mills, at the rate of last year's consumption per spindle, the total would reach 2,224,000 bales.

Secretary Hester's report abounds in facts interesting to the cotton trade, hence it would be well for every one engaged in the cotton industry in any way to carefully read the full text, as it is impossible in a single article to review all the data furnished.

THE VIRGINIA SENSATION.

A few days ago the Associated Press sent out a dispatch concerning the killing of Mrs. McCue, wife of former Mayor J. Samuel McCue, of Charlottesville. The story was that a burglar met him in the hall, knocked him senseless and shot Mrs. McCue dead as she ran into the hall to see what was the matter. When McCue gained consciousness he found his wife dead and the burglar gone.

A sensation has been caused by the arrest of McCue for deliberately murdering his wife. The circumstances are strong and the jail is guarded in order to prevent any attempt at lynching. When we read the telegram concerning the tragedy it was our theory that McCue had murdered his wife and put up the burglar story. The story comes out now that he and his wife lived very unhappily together and had frequent quarrels. She once threatened to get a divorce and that would have been better than murder at last. A tragedy, however, is generally the result when a man and his wife cannot stay under the same roof without a constant wrangle. "A house divided against itself will fall."

The sad tragedy at Charlotteville may be a lesson to others. Such occurrences seem to be very frequent of late in the United States, and it is a very distressing side of our social life. It is all the more so in the McCue family, for they have several children. McCue declares that he is innocent, and at the funeral of his wife he appeared to be heart-broken. He feigned well, but the people of Charlotteville believe he is a monster. He is a lawyer, has been mayor of the city, and held other positions of honor at the hands of the people. What a fall to now be confined in a common cell to answer for killing the wife whom he promisod at the altar to protect and honor. He may be acquitted in law but he will be condemned in public opinion. It is hoped, however, that his prominence will not save him from the gallows, for the fault in the enmity between himself and his wife was his, judging from accounts.

CURRENT COMMENT.

—— Senator Aldrich urges the Republican national campaign committee to save Rhode Island by sending able speakers to the little State. Formerly another method of argument was deemed more effective.—Philadelphia Record.

—— What a sensation there would be if the commander of the "opposition forces" in this third battle of Bull Run should correct the mistake of Beauregard in the first battle and march to Washington while no one was expecting him!—Omaha Bee.

—— A Mexican newspaper declares that the spirit of the "Iron Chancellor" is reincarnate in Roosevelt. That ought to please the man of San Juan or Sagamore Hill, because he has declared that iron in the blood is the correct thing.—Dallas (Texas) News.

—— There is a man in New York who cannot remember whether he has married one woman or two. It is presumed that the sea upon which he floated has been one of perpetual gale, and if there was a change of the hands at the helm he was not able to detect it.—Mobile Item.

—— The complaint of the Second South Carolina regiment that it was not getting a square division of supplies at Manassas seems well founded. It is reported that they ate two days' rations in one day and then went hungry. Later they cleaned out a whole grocery store, according to report. The case certainly must have been desperate to make them commit such an act of depredation, though their conduct cannot be justified even on the ground that they had not been properly treated. The proprietor of the store probably thought Sherman was correct in his definition of what war is, but he will be reimbursed and the amount will be deducted from the pay of the regiment.—Columbia Record.

Rate Almost Cut in Half.

Account of the National Convention Fraternal Order of Eagles, to be held in Baltimore, Md., September 12th to 17th, 1904, the Atlantic Coast Line will sell tickets to Baltimore from Wilmington at rate of $13.75 for the round trip. This cheap rate affords an excellent opportunity for parties contemplating a trip East.

The Eye of a Giraffe.

Giraffes are the most difficult of all animals to take by surprise. No matter from what direction you may approach the giraffe is sure to discover you. It has been called the original "rubberneck." It is not generally known that nature, because of the height of its eyes from the ground, has supplied it with a talent peculiarly its own for making observations. As a matter of fact, a giraffe can see in all directions at the same time without moving its head. The eyes are large and prominent and so placed at the side of the head that, bulging out as they do, they are capable of seeing backward as well as forward.

The Sea of Space.

The human mind cannot comprehend what is meant by the four little words in the expression "the sea of space." If the volume of "space" included within our solar system—which is perhaps but a single train of planets among hundreds of millions of a similar kind—were occupied by one single globe 5,000,000,000 miles in diameter it would be but as a feather in the marvelous spread of "vacancy" surrounding it. In fact, it has been calculated that in the space occupied by our solar system 2,700,000,000,000,000 globes the size of our earth could revolve, each at a distance of 500,000 miles from the other.

Curious Bread Law.

There is a curious provision in the British bread acts of 1822 and 1836, which are still in force, to the effect that "every person who shall make for sale or sell or expose for sale any bread made wholly or partially of peas or beans or potatoes or of any sort of corn or grain other than wheat shall cause all such bread to be marked with a large Roman 'M.'" It would thus appear that the baker who chooses to put potatoes in his bread could escape the charge of adulteration by marking the loaf with this letter in the manner described.

Rough and Ready Wooing.

The Australian aborigine when weary of a single life looks about for a partner, and, finding one to his liking, stalks her, and, watching his opportunity, stuns her with a heavy blow and carries her off to her new home, where it is to be hoped, on her return to consciousness, his after tenderness makes some atonement for his somewhat rough and ready way of wooing.

A Possibility.

He—If you don't intend to break your engagement with me why do you allow young Richmann to make you such valuable presents? She—My father advised me to accept them. He—He did! Why? She—He said that if I married you they might come in handy.

What Is Life?

In the last analysis nobody knows, but we do know that it is under strict law. Abuse that law even slightly, pain results. REINDEER WOOL CLOTHES.

Their Buoyancy Makes Them an Aid to Persons Learning to Swim.

From their herds of reindeer the Laplanders in northern Europe take the woolly hair and make from it blankets which are remarkable for their excellent qualities of resisting moisture and cold. Of these blankets the United States consul at Frankfurt, Germany, has this to say:

"A close examination of the hair of the reindeer furnishes an explanation of its peculiar value. The hair does not have a hollow space inside for its whole length, but is divided or partitioned off into exceedingly numerous cells, like water tight compartments. These are filled with condensed air, and their walls are so elastic and at the same time of such strong resistance that they are not broken up either during the process of manufacture or by swelling when wet. The cells expand in water, and thus it happens that a man clad completely in garments made of reindeer wool does not sink when in water because he is buoyed up by means of the air contained in the hundreds of thousands of hair cells. In the markets and stores of Norway, Sweden and Russia garments and blankets of reindeer wool are to be had at lower prices than other fabrics. In Vienna there is a factory which manufactures garments of reindeer wool, especially bathing costumes. For persons unable to swim the possession of such garments is of great value. It is possible that they may be utilized in learning how to swim. Recently successful trials have been made in Paris in this line. In England attention has been directed to this peculiar property of reindeer wool, and it is proposed to take up its manufacture and possibly to improve it."—Fiber and Fabric.

The Safety of London Theaters.

There is no gangway through the stalls in an English theater and only two exits, so that in the event of a fire, or, what is worse, of a panic, the rush to these exits and up the steps in the passages that skirt the back of the pit and lead finally to the central lobby would be terrible. One always feels entombed in the stalls of an English theater.

However, feelings are one thing, facts another. And there is no getting away from the fact that London theaters are the safest in the world. Year after year over 300 places of public entertainment are licensed by the London county council, twenty-three of them being theaters and the rest music halls, concert halls, assembly rooms, dancing saloons, and so on, and in not a single one of them has a death been caused by fire for nearly fifty years.—Sydney Brooks in Harper's Weekly.

A New French Rifle.

A new French military invention is on record. This time it is not the machine gun, but the army rifle, and again the inventor steps out from the ranks. Corporal Grissolange of the First colonial infantry has devised a method of greatly increasing the capacity of small arms for rapid firing. Instead of one magazine, holding eight cartridges, as at present, Grissolange provides three magazines, holding altogether eighteen cartridges, which by an easy mechanism worked with great rapidity are brought up in succession to the feeding tube. The army commission on military inventions has just notified Grissolange that the minister of war has placed his invention before the commission, with instructions to examine and report upon it.

A Remarkable Memory.

A remarkable memory for faces is one of the attributes of George Denny, head watchman at the state, war and navy building. It is as head doorkeeper after office hours that Denny's peculiar gift stands him in good stead. Like the other government buildings, no visitors are allowed at the state, war and navy after 2 o'clock. Many of the offices remain open until 5 o'clock, however, and there is a constant stream of officials, messengers and newspaper men pouring in and out beyond the time that the doors are closed. Denny never makes the mistake of holding up the wrong man.—Kansas City Journal.

The Metal Nodium.

A new metal similar to aluminium, but of still lesser weight, has been discovered by the French engineer, Albert Nodon, and called "nodium" after him. It is manufactured by an electric process. In color, luster and structure it is almost exactly like steel. Its specific weight when molten is only 2.4. Its resistance against breaking is given as about twenty pounds a square of .04 inch. Its constancy in the air is higher than that of aluminium. Its ductility is between six and eight inches. The malleability can be compared to that of bronze. It melts at about 600 degrees.

Profits of Literary Piracy.

The octogenarian Mr. Charles Henry Clarke, just dead, netted a clear £18,000 out of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." That was in the evil old days when literary piracy was rampant on both sides of the Atlantic and "moral rights" were of less value than waste paper. But Mr. Clarke, having ideas of his own, took the liberty of anticipating copyright conventions by sending Mrs. Beecher Stowe a thousand guineas. Had he acted within the four corners of the law the author's check would have been drawn for precisely £0 0s. 0d.—London Outlook.

COTTON MARKETS.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The cotton market was easy at unchanged prices to a decline of seven points in response to lower English cables, generally favorable weather advices and increasing receipts. Trading was moderately active during the early session. Liverpool continued easy after the local opening and sent selling ordrs to this side, leading to the suggestion that the active covering noted in that market on the previous day had greatly cleard up the speculative situation in relation to September contracts and the delayed shipments from this side. At first the market here showed more or less irregularity, and as prices dropped back to about the lower points under the higher point of yesterday, there was a fair demand from the spinners on the reaction theory. Wall street kept hammering the market and with hardly a reaction of more than five or six points, the list worked steadily downward until in the afternoon it showed a net loss of about fifteen to seventeen points. Later, there was a rally of six or seven points on covering and reports that a tropical storm that has been working up from the West Indies had reached Florida and it was likely to spread over the entire eastern belt. This stimulated the demand only for a moment, however, and the market was finally barely steady at a net loss of eleven to fourteen points or nearly the lowest of the session. Sales were estimated at 300,000 bales, or a little better than yesterday. Full exports were reported, but receipts also ran full and the large insight for the week had some influence on the decline of the early afternoon.

Remember, Paracamph is the "First Aid to the Injured" and is for external application, except in case of Sore Throat, and takes the place of many irritating, and often poisonous, internal remedies which are frequently taken to relieve the troubles enumerated above. Paracamph is a combination of refined camphor, and soothing, healing antiseptic oils and is a prescription endorsed by prominent surgeons and doctors now in hospitals and private practice all over this country; it is a safe and effectual treatment for all forms of Congestion, Soreness, Swelling and Inflammation, and when applied to cuts and burns relieves instantly, heals without leaving a scar and always prevents blood poisoning. It cures in a thoroughly natural way and does not affect the nervous system or upset the stomach, and when applied goes through the pores of the skin directly to the seat of the trouble, stops the pain, relieves the congestion by stimulating the circulation and draws out all Soreness, Fever and Inflammation by inducing sweating.

Paracamph is a preparation for the people, and a bottle or more of it should be in every home. As a family remedy nothing can equal it. Papa may have sore feet, hands or back; mamma may have Neuralgia; the boy cuts, burns or black eyes; the sister toothache or bad complexion, and the baby Fever, Sore Throat or a swelling. SPIRITS TURPENTINE.

— In Cumberland county the Democrats are asking for a primary election. A strong petition has been signed.

— Wilkesboro Chronicle: If there is truth in the report of the joint debate at Taylorsville as given in the Charlotte Observer (Republican) Blackburn wiped out Newland kinder like the Russians have been wiping out the Japanese.

— Raleigh News and Observer, Sept. 9: Governor Aycock returned yesterday from the Oxford Female Seminary, where he attended the formal opening. He says that the college opened yesterday with the largest attendance it has ever had.

— Franklin Press: Our neighbor, Charles J. Harris, leader of a forlorn hope for the governorship, has published a list of thirty-two appointments to make speeches through the State against hope. He has ignored Macon county entirely, so Macon is at liberty to ignore him in November, and she will do it too. Charley is a good citizen, but he is on the wrong track to lead to the Governor'smansion.

— Summons has been served at Durham on Mrs. Ellen Brockwell Clements in an action begun by her husband, Albert Clements, of Wake county for divorce. This is a proceeding in which the husband wants a divorce from his divorced wife. Sometime ago the wife was given absolute divorce and now the husband is seeking the same relief. The woman says she will not contest the matter.

— Greensboro Record: It is said the more brazen a fakir the easier it is for him to rope in victims, which reminds us to say that going upon this principle, Butler, he of Populist fame, should win votes for Roosevelt, for while he was going out for him squarely after being for him on the sly for years, he is telling what a big vote Tom Watson is going to get in North Carolina and other States—votes that he hopes will be be diverted from Parker. As a bold fakir Butler is A1.

— Staff correspondence Raleigh News and Observer, under date of Wilson, Sept. 8: With the beginning of September tobacco is bringing here from 75 to 100 per cent. better prices than it did last season, and there is a good prospect for 10 to 12 cents for cotton. The outlook for a good Fall business in Wilson is bright. I could not but think to-day as I stood on the floors of the new brick warehouses of Cooper & Watson and the Central Brick, how wonderfully it is that in a few short months such large brick buildings could be erected. Only a few vacant lots now remain on the burnt district, and I understand they will be occupied at no distant day by new brick business buildings of various kinds. Wilson is now operating six warehouses for the sale of leaf tobacco, and so far as I can hear, prices are good and farmers generally satisfied.

— At Raleigh on Thursday a charter was issued for the Inter Urban Street Railway Co., of High Point. The company was authorized to operate a street railway system in High Point and establish lines running out to neighboring towns not exceeding 50 miles. Two notable objective points are Greensboro and Winston-Stalem. The capital is $600,000 authorized and $300,000 subscribed. The incorporators are W. A. Heller, of Danville, Tenn.; P. H. Mills, R. A. and R. H. Wheeler, of High Point. A charter was also granted to the Moffitt Iron Works Co., of Sanford. This concern has $25,000 capital authorized and the incorporators are M. N. Moffitt and W. K. Moffitt, all of Sanford. The company proposes to conduct a general iron foundry and machine shops, including the making of engines and boilers.

— One of the largest and most important sales of unimproved real estate that has been made in Asheville for years was closed Thursday, when Dr. E. W. Grove, President of the Paris Medicine Company, of St. Louis, Mo., and Atlanta, became the owner of forty-five acres of land in the northeastern part of the city. The price paid by Dr. Grove for this property has not been made public, but that it involves many thousands of dollars in evidence by the fact that property in this section of the city and almost adjoining Grove's purchase has sold for $800 and $1,000 per acre. For the past few weeks Dr. Grove has had his landscape gardeners going over the tract and he will at once begin the work of laying it off in a residential park, similar to those he has just completed in Atlanta and St. Louis.

— Asheville correspondence: That North Carolina is capable of producing the best along agricultural and stock raising lines will be demonstrated at St. Louis the latter part of this month, when Geo. W. Vanderbilt will have a Biltmore farm exhibit at the World's Fair. Mr. Vanderbilt proposes to send to St. Louis the finest products of the Biltmore farms. The exhibit will include fine imported Jersey cattle worth thousands of dollars. Berkshire pigs worth from $600 to $1,000 each, and poultry of every breed, worth from $25 to $50 a pair. The exhibition will be in charge of Reuben Gentry, one of Mr. Vanderbilt's managers, and preparations for the exhibit are now being made. The exhibit will be sent on to St. Louis shortly after the return to Biltmore of Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt the middle of this month. Every year Mr. Vanderbilt has a Biltmore farm exhibit at a number of State fairs south of Mason and Dixon line and never fails to capture a majority of first prizes.

Fearful Odds Against Him.

Bed-ridden, alone and destitute. Such, in brief, was the condition of an old soldier by the name of J. J. Havens, of Versailles, O. For years he was troubled with kidney disease, and neither doctors nor medicines gave him relief. At length he tried Electric Bitters. It put him on his feet in short order, and now he testifies: "I'm on the road to complete recovery." Best on earth for Liver and Kidney troubles, and all forms of Stomach and Bowel complaints. Only 50c. Guaranteed by R. R. BELLAMY, druggist.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

Lake Geneva, Wis., Nov. 20, 1903.

Life has been one long night of misery for me during the past three years, because of my miserable state of health. It seemed that I endured all the misery that a woman could endure in that time and live. Three years ago I caught cold while out skating, and suffered a severe fall at the same time. As it unfortunately happened during the menstrual period the subsequent consequences were as bad as could well be imagined. Inflammation and ulceration set in, not only in the womb, but also in the ovaries, and affected the fallopian tubes.

WINE OF CARDUI

My physician did his very best to relieve me, but after three months declared there was no relief except through an operation, which I objected to most decidedly. I then tried several highly recommended remedies, without any help, until my mother advised me to try Wine of Cardui as it had been recommended to her.

I took it as a drowning person grasps at a straw and it proved a veritable Godsend to me. My pains gradually grew less, the daily headaches I had suffered from then disappeared. My general health kept improving and in thirteen weeks I was fully restored. No operation was needed. Wine of Cardui proved my restorer and most gladly do I give it the entire credit.

— Raleigh Post: The advent of Mr. R. N. Hackett, of Wilkes county, in the State campaign introduces a speaker of no ordinary ability, whose activities have hitherto been confined to his own congressional district. Mr. Hackett's appointments, announced to-day by State Chairman Simmons, will take him into almost every section of the State. The speeches of Mr. Hackett in the campaign two years ago were said to be equal to the best, and his recent canvass for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Eighth district was pronounced brilliant.

NATURE SPARES

The Stricken Rose From Grief.

What a fortunate provision of nature it is, that deprives the rose of mental suffering; for how poignant would be its grief to discover, in the height of its blooming glory, that a canker fed at its heart, and that its beauty and fragrance were doomed forever. Nature always spares the suffering; she is a veritable store-house of pleasing rewards, for those who seek her aid. In the years gone by falling hair and grayness have cast a gloom over the lives of thousands of young women, but thanks to the investigations of scientists the true cause of hair destruction is now known to be a germ or parasite that burrows into the hair follicles. Newbro's Herpicide absolutely destroys this germ, thus permitting the hair to grow as nature intended. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

SATURDAY MORNING, SEPT. 10.

AT THE STATE CAPITAL.

President Winston Wins in the Trouble With His Students at the A. & M. Democratic Headquarters, Etc.

[Special Star Correspondence.]

RALEIGH, N. C., Sept. 9.—The statement is given out this morning from the A. and M. College that the work of the institution is moving along regularly and all members of the Junior, Sophomore and Freshman classes are attending their work and six of the Seniors remain, while others are asking to be taken back. President Winston is receiving letters and telegrams from patrons and friends of the college everywhere endorsing his course. The father of one of the Seniors wired him to "use a hickory stick" on his son. Another said thrash my son soundly and stand by your rules; you ought to have had them all along. About twenty of the Seniors have left the city in the last few hours. One who was a prominent foot ball player, was found to have about $20 worth of goods in his trunk belonging to the College Athletic Association. Members of the association went to the depot, made him open his trunk and return the goods.

At Democratic headquarters to-day there were a number of distinguished visitors. Hon. W. W. Kitchin, Congressman from the Fifth district, was one of the first, he having arrived here on the early train for a conference with Chairman Simmons. He expresses gratification at the progress being made in the launching of the campaign. Another caller was Capt. T. W. Mason, of Northampton. He says the work of the campaign in his section is now well in hand.

President Chas. D. McIver, of the State Normal and Industrial College, Greensboro, was here to-day, and says the college will open Sept. 29th with over 500 students. He has just returned from Oxford, where he attended the opening of the Oxford Seminary there. He says Prof. Hobgood's new building is admirably arranged and equipped and the permanent success and continued progress of the seminary is assured.

Sherwood Hinton, the slayer of Manly Wilder, both colored, has been captured in Durham. The killing was with a baseball bat on the State Fair diamond here some months ago. Hinton and Manly were overzealous rooters for contending teams and in the midst of a quarrel Hinton struck Manly on the head with a baseball bat. Death resulted in a few hours. Hinton escaped.

Secretary Jos. E. Pogue, of the State Fair, says the outlook for the Fair brightens daily and with anything like favorable weather the attendance is sure to be far in excess of any previous year. Already a number of additional excursion trains have been arranged for.

Junius Davis, Jr., of Wilmington, and W. H. Carroll of Burlington, were among the arrivals at the Yarborough to-day.

FORMAL TREATY SIGNED

By the British Mission and the Thibetan Officials at Lhassa.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

LHASSA, September 7, via Gyantse, Sept. 9.—Col. Younghusband, head of the British mission, and the Thibetan officials signed a formal treaty to-day in the apartments of the Dalai Lama, at Potala. The ceremony was simple and was conducted amid quaint and picturesque surroundings. The terms of the treaty were read out only in the Thibetan language, and its details will be published later by the foreign office at Silma. The proceedings closed with a short speech by Col. Younghusband.

The Dalai Lama is now supposed to be well on his way to Mongolia and the officials insist that his action amounts to abdication. The administration is now carried on by a council of regency. It is believed that the Tashi Lama will eventually be recognized as the supreme religious head.

The arrangements for the return of the British mission are complete.

FRIGHTFUL WRECK ON S. A. L. RAILWAY

Passenger Train for Atlanta and a Freight Following Went Through a Trestle.

SOUTH OF CATAWBA RIVER.

Four Persons Killed and Thirty-five Injured—Dead and Injured Taken Back to Monroe, N. C.—Both Trains Were Demolished.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

PORTSMOUTH, VA., Sept. 9.—Shortly after 1 o'clock this morning train No. 41, on the Seaboard Air Line railroad, consisting of an express car, a mail car, two day coaches and a Pullman sleeper, was derailed at a trestle just south of the Catawba river, S. C., and twenty-two miles southwest of Monroe, N. C., followed by the wreck of a light engine and caboose, resulting in the death of four persons and the injuring of thirty-five others. The killed are: Engineer E. Y. Barksdale, Abbeville, S. C.; Fireman Ed. Roberts, colored, Atlanta, Ga.; Mrs. Black; unknown lady.

The injured, Mrs. James Clay, Oakland, Tenn., fractured jaw; T. C. Jerome, Atlanta, shoulder and head injured; Dr. Edward Banks, Athens, Ga., back injured; Mrs. Sidney Herbert, Maitland, Fla., foot amputated, may die; Mrs. Jerome Silvey, Atlanta, bruised; C. W. Hinson, Lenox, Ga., jaw injured; Tom Mitchell, (colored) brakeman, Abbeville, S. C., head and shoulders injured; Pink Carpenter, Monroe, N. C., porter, head and body injured.

The following were slightly hurt: V. S. Elerby, Atlanta, (colored) Pullman porter; J. G. Turner, Atlanta, Pullman conductor; G. H. Meares, Monroe, N. C., engineer; J. Duncan, Abbeville, brakeman; H. H. Chapman, Abbeville, S. C., conductor; C. H. Davis, Atlanta, express messenger; W. Fairman, Atlanta, mail clerk; R. T. West, Monroe, N. C., conductor; B. F. Meader, address unknown; F. C. Topleman, address unknown; T. C. Whorten, address unknown; Mr. Black, address unknown; Roebri Siegler, address unknown, and Mollie Griffin, address unknown. A number of colored laborers also were slightly hurt.

At the offices of the Seaboard Air Line in this city it was stated that immediately after the receipt of the news of the accident a special train with a wrecking outfit and doctors, started from Monroe for the scene of the wreck. The dead and injured were brought back to Monroe.

J. M. Barr, first vice president and general manager, of the road, said to-day that there was evidence of a malicious attempt to wreck the train, a number of rail joints having been found disconnected. He gave the following details:

"Train number 41 was in charge of Conductor Richard West and Engineer Gaston Meares. The wreck occurred about 1 o'clock this morning at the trestle just south of Catawba river, S. C., and 22 miles southwest of Monroe, N. C. The engine passed over the trestle and went down the embankment, killing colored fireman Ed. Roberts and seriously injuring Engineer Gaston Meares. A light engine and caboose, running as Number 19, in charge of Conductor Chapman and Engineer E. Y. Barksdale, which train was passed by Number 41, a short distance east of the point where the accident occured, ran into the damaged trestle and on top of the passenger train, resulting in the death of the engineer of Number 19, the fireman of the passenger train and of Mrs. Black and an unknown lady passenger. Two Pullman employes, six railway employes, one mail clerk, one Southern Express Company employe and twenty-three passengers were injured.

FURTHER DETAILS.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 9.—The wrecked train was running about forty miles an hour when the trestle, which is about 300 feet long, spanning a meadow near the Catawba river gave way. The engine and some of the cars passed over, but were drawn backward into the abyss and upon the other cars, a light engine and caboose, piling on top of the train of wreckage before it could be flagged.

Gaston Meares, the engineer of the passenger train, escaped with some bruises and a painful scalp wound. How he escaped death is beyond his own or anyone else's comprehension. He said he was driving at the rate of forty miles an hour as he crossed the bridge. Just before the engine had swept entirely clear of the structure, he felt it sinking, but the impetus carried the engine and all the cars across except the first class passenger car and the Pullman clear of the yawning gulf which was left when the bridge collapsed, but the engine and cars were swerved from their course to the right, tearing the rails from their fastenings, hurling the train upside down over an embankment to the meadow, about thirty feet below.

When the train was crossing over, the embankment, every light went out, passengers were thrown over heads over heels, against the sides of the coaches, bleeding and bruised. Mrs. Black, sitting with her husband, gave a short cry and when he managed to strike a match and find her body, he discovered that she was dead, her neck having been broken. She was the only passenger killed, or even hurt seriously.

As the scrambling and shouting went on in the darkness above the noises, a brakeman, with his head halfway out of a window, was heard to shout: "My God, the freight train is coming upon us."

In less than a minute the freight, which had left Monroe fifteen minutes behind the passenger, came whizzing along the tracks, struck the open space where the bridge had fallen and plunged its way through the passenger cars. The woman, whose identity could not be discovered, then met her death, the freight engine having crashed through the side of that passenger car in which she was and crushing her body into a shapeless mass. The engineer of the freight train must have met his death instantly. He was found in the cab of the overturned engine with his head crushed, but few bruises upon his body. When his body was dug out of the debris this morning his watch was still running on time. His fireman escaped with a few minor injuries.

Mr. Black, whose wife was killed beside him, was the last man to leave the coaches, and what he did the very first thing was to walk, in his bruised condition, to Catawba Junction, two miles away, get into the telegraph office and send to Monroe for help. He is a telegraph operator in the service of the Norfolk & Western railway and was going to Atlanta with his wife to testify there in a railroad suit. He hardly realizes the blow he has sustained, and sat on the bank near by, with mournful eyes and muttering to himself, "My God, what an ordeal for a man to bear."

The mass of wreckage of the two trains is like a huge heap of junk. Railroad men said to-day that they had never seen such a complete demolishment of engines and coaches. They are lying heaped and crashed together. Looking at the conglomeration, people wonder that any one escaped. The wrecking crew from the Seaboard shops at Abbeville, S. C., arrived about 10 o'clock this morning and began to clear away the debris. It will take days to get the line in passable condition, although the trains are scattered to the side of the tracks and in the ravine into which the bridge fell.

George S. Fitzwater, chief detective of the Seaboard Air Line, arrived on the scene early in the morning and took charge of the situation until organized help arrived. He said this afternoon that he had found some spikes and bolts and two angle bars which had been removed from the track with claw bars, and he said he was confident dirty work had been done. Mr. Fitzwater sent a telegram to Superintendent E. Berkeley, at Atlanta, telling him that he had discovered evidence of malice in this work and expressed his belief that some one had disconnected the joints in the lower half of the bridge.

The stretch of track in that vicinity is a clear, straight and apparently well built one. The timbers of the bridge appear to have been wrenched from their fastenings and those that are splintered are sound. There was nothing to suggest that the foundation of the structure was undermined by a washout, although the grond was somewhat marshy yesterday.

The dead bodies were all taken from the wreck about half-past ten o'clock. The woman who was so badly mutilated wore a simple gold ring, with the inscription, "From Tom to Anna, October 20, 1885," inside. She was probably 32 years old, medium sized, with dark auburn hair. She had a purse containing $2.45, a return trip ticket from Wilmington, N. C., to Atlanta, and a baggage check, No. 603,598.

C. S. Coleman, of Bon Air, said he was the only man in the smoking car when the train was hurled over the embankment, and he heard lots of shouting. In a very few minutes, he said, the freight train crashed into them, and then silence settled over the scene for several minutes, when the groans of the wounded as they began to regain consciousness pierced the night air.

Perjury as a Fine Art.

In India, according to an Englishman who lived there many years, the more educated class reduce perjury to a fine art. If a case is to come before the court they are not content with coaching their witnesses beforehand, but they take them to the very spot where the deed was committed and go through all the incidents of the assault or tragedy to be sworn to, so that the various subpoenned witnesses are little likely to be caught by any cross examination, no matter how severe it may be. He cites an instance of the methods of the ordinary Hindoo lawyer. A British officer had made a number of purchases of a Parsee merchant, who charged him such unreasonable prices that he refused to pay the bill. The merchant brought suit, and the officer consulted a lawyer, who agreed to take the case and win it if he were not interfered with. This was promised. When the trial came off, the defense promptly acknowledged the purchase of the articles at the prices named, but produced half a dozen witnesses who swore that they had seen the bill paid.

A Remarkable Schoolroom.

One of the most remarkable schoolrooms in the world is surely that of La Petite Roquette, the Paris prison for juvenile offenders. The system of this prison is that of solitary confinement, the whole building being so constructed that each of the detached cells is overlooked by a warder stationed on a small observation tower. The schoolroom consists of 200 cells in the form of an amphitheater, from each of which the teacher, and the teacher only, can be seen. Each of the youthful offenders takes his place in silence, the first in the farthermost cell and the others in rotation. The closing of one of these cell doors opens that of the next cell. The voice of the teacher is the only sound to be heard in the building. Religious services are conducted in the same way, each of the inmates being able to see the officiating clergyman, and him alone.

The Wild Boar of India.

General Sir Montague Gerard of the British army in his book of reminiscences has much to say about hunting. During his twenty years' residence in India he killed nearly 200 tigers, some of them dreaded man eaters, while his bags of other wild animals would be difficult to number. Terrible as is the tiger, the wild boar is even more savage and dangerous to attack. His tusks frequently grow to nine or ten inches in length and are as sharp as a razor. Tigers have a special dread of him, and in their encounters, which sometimes happen, he nearly always comes out victor. In pig sticking, which is always done with a spear on horseback, there is constant danger of his disemboweling horses, in which case the rider often suffers also. General Gerard had many narrow escapes.

The Orange Tree.

The orange tree is regarded as a prince among trees and the emblem of genius. A peculiarity of this tree is that it bears fruit and flower at the same time. Its leaves are evergreen, and as it grows older it grows in beauty and fruitfulness, its blossom filling the air with its fragrance. It is indeed a fit emblem of marriage promise and hopes. The orange tree is considered typical of love because, though its fruit is golden and its flavor and scent delicious, its rind is bitter, and, as every one knows who has experienced it, Cupid's dart causes pain. The orange is emblematic of gratitude as well as of genius and love.

Voting In the Commons.

In the British house of commons, as soon as the question to be decided is put from the chair, a clerk at the table sets in motion a huge sand glass, familiarly known to members as the "egg boiler," probably because it takes three minutes to run out. As the last sand runs through the glass the sergeant-at-arms instantly locks the massive oak doors of the chamber and only those members who have succeeded in getting through the doorway can vote.

A Prudent Youngster.

"And you say the teacher whipped you cruelly?"

"Yes, dad."

"Show me the marks."

"I can't, dad. There ain't no marks."

"No marks?"

"No, dad. You see, I was dressed for it."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Becoming.

"That dress is becoming, my dear," said the man who thinks he is a diplomatist.

She looked at him coldly for a moment and then replied:

"Yes. It is becoming threadbare."

BOTH ARMIES ARE NOW AT MUKDEN.

The Men Resting and Only the Japanese and Russian Outposts in Direct Contact.

THE LOSSES AT LIAO YANG.

Estimated by Russians for Both Sides at Fifty Thousand—Kuroki's Flank Movement Precipitated the Retreat of Kuropatkin.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

There is a lack of specific information regarding the exact situation in Manchuria. The Russian general staff, lacking details, is unable to speak authoritatively while advices from Japanese sources are significantly lacking. It is established that the Russian army is safely at Mukden and that the retreat was accomplished in good order in spite of the harassing Japanese, and the fact that Kuropatkin was hampered by more than 12,000 wounded.

There is nothing yet to indicate the exact whereabouts of the three Japanese armies. When last heard from Kuroki's forces were on the Russian left flank and steadily pushing northward, but Viceroy Alexieff reports that rail and telegraph communication between Mukden and Harbin is uninterrupted. General Sakharoff reports no fighting during Thursday, and while the outposts are still in contact they are not even exchanging shots. It seems to be established that Oyama's troops practically abandoned on Wednesday the attempt to head off Kuropatkin and that the last determined effort to bring the Russian commander to bay was made Tuesday.

A detailed list of Russian losses is promised to-day (Saturday) and it is thought that these losses will approximate 20,000 as against 30,000 for the Japanese. It is officially reported that Kuropatkin has not been wounded.

The last news from Mukden came in a dispatch to the Associated Press, filed Friday night. It tells of a great down pour of rain, accompanied by thunder and lightning. Quietness prevails throughout the entire section.

All Quiet at Mukden.

MUKDEN, Sept. 9, 12:30 A. M.—All continues quiet at Mukden. All anxiety regarding the Russian transport is over. The Japanese have crossed the Shahke and are now resting. Only the Russian and Japanese outposts are in direct contact. Thousands of wounded are being sent north.

During the five days from August 30 to September 4, 12,300 wounded were treated in Red Cross ambulances, the Sisters of Mercy vieing with the doctors in physical courage and resistance to fatigue.

Much of the Japanese success is attributed to the millet fields, in which the Russians were not accustomed to manœuvre.

The Retreat from Liao Yang.

A correspondent of the Associated Press who has just returned to Mukden with the Russian rear guard, after having accompanied their army the whole time since the battle of Liao Yang, says the losses on both sides were enormous. As a moderate estimate he places them at fifty thousand. He confirms the reports that the fighting at Liao Yang recalled in fierceness the sanguinary battles of the American civil war. Gen. Kuroki's flank movement east of the Russian position precipitated the retreat from Liao Yang. When the Russians left Liao Yang the town was strewn with the corpses of the slain. The Japanese shell fire continued until Sept. 4, when the bridges over the Taitse were destroyed. The Russians admit that their positions at Liao Yang were too extended for their army to hold. The greater portion of the Russian forces crossed the Taitse during the night of September 2d and engaged General Kuroki with two corps. The fighting on the first day was favorable to the Russians, but the conditions changed at night time. The Russian infantry suffered heavily from shrapnel and rifle fire. The fighting was continued September 3rd and 4th, the Russian successfully protecting the east side of the railroad. When the Japanese approached Yental they immediately commenced to attack it. The Russian transport began to retreat at midnight of September 4th, and was attacked three miles from Yental on the morning of September 5th along the Mukden road. The Russians pushed out two corps and much artillery to protect their right flank.

The condition of the roads rendered the retreat slow and the troops and horses were tired out. The Japanese seemed to lack enterprise and failed to recognize the serious situation of the Russians, the morale of their troops having been severely tried.

A Japanese army of 40,000 men is reported to be north of Mukden and it is considered likely, in view of the condition of the two armies, that active hostilities may be indefinitely delayed unless the Japanese are able to push on and force the Russians to give battle.

When Animals Faint.

The little gray dog tumbled headlong into the area, and the maid who happened to be standing there closed the gate. When the dog saw she was safe from her two legged pursuers she toppled over in a dead faint. At any rate, the maid insisted that she fainted. The boarders, who crowded out into the area to help bring the little animal to, derided the assertion, but the doctor that finally joined the group said there was nothing preposterous about it.

"Of course she fainted," he said. "Lots of animals faint. Cats and dogs and even more stolid animals keel over in moments of fear and exhaustion. In the case of horses the prostration is generally attributed to sunstroke, but quite often they are knocked out by a plain, everyday faint instead of atmospherical excesses. Fowls faint too, and the birds of the air. In fact, it is hard to find any living creature that doesn't topple over in crucial circumstances. If the lioness of the jungle were up on etiquette she would be just as much justified in carrying a camphor bottle as the finest lady in the land."—New York Press.

Quality is what makes prices. If Burnett's Vanilla Extract was no better than other extracts, its price would be the same. Once tried always used.
